Introduction

Career counseling, also known as career guidance, is counseling designed to help with choosing, changing, or leaving a career and is available at any stage in life. One's career is often one of the most important aspects of adulthood, and embarking on a new career, whether for the first time, the second time, or any time thereafter, can be a stressful event, especially when economic difficulties such as recession are a factor. A career counselor can help by outlining and discussing one's potential career options.

Job stress may lead to anxiety or depression, so finding a fulfilling career is considered to be important to mental well-being. When choosing the most fitting career or finding a new job when one proves unsatisfying or frustrating, the services of a career counselor may be helpful.

A career counselor could be a therapist, life coach, or a volunteer from the business world but will generally be trained to provide career information resources, discuss career development, and administer and interpret aptitude and ability assessments. Students might see a guidance counselor in high school before applying to college and then again in college before choosing or changing majors, but career counseling can help anyone who wishes to change careers, leave work altogether, or explore ways to be more satisfied with a CURRENT CAREER.

WORKSHOP ON RESUME WRITING

Royal Educational Institute is going to organize a “resume writing workshop” for the students to learn from the expert Mr. I.S. Suri about how to write a business format cover letter that includes personalized elements and relevant background information/qualities for specific job postings.

Firstly, Chairman Mr. Vijay Agarwal, along with Mr. P.K. Jain, Dr. Manish Portal welcome the guest, then Mr. Vijay Agarwal said few words and Mr. P.K. Jain also express his views on how to make your resume effective for your career .

Create an effective resume, or improve the one you already have. Transform your resume into a powerful tool that will get you interviews. This workshop will lead you through a self-assessment series so you will have extensive knowledge about the product you are marketing—YOU! Learn different resume formats, how to write an employment objective, and tricks to writing persuasive cover letters. Make the most of your work experience. Know what to reveal in a resume, and what to keep to you.

Learning Objectives:

- Identify the different parts of a resume and its purpose.
- Learn about resume rules and how they affect the development of a resume.
- Learn how to handle special skills and references on a resume.
- Develop a cover letter to accompany the resume.
- Learn how to put the finishing touches on a resume with proper formatting and proofreading.

What is a résumé?

A résumé (also spelled resume) is a brief document that summarizes your education, employment history, and experiences that are relevant to your qualifications for a particular job for which you are applying. The purpose of a résumé (along with your cover letter) is to get an interview. Research has shown that it takes an average of ten (10) interviews to receive one

(1) job offer, so your résumé needs to be persuasive and perfect. Given this, your résumé must be user-centered and persuasive.

The general purpose résumé usually contains four sections:

- Contact
- Education
- Experience
- Honors, activities, and outreach

WRITING THE CONTACT SECTION OF YOUR RÉSUMÉ

This section of your résumé is definitely the easiest to write, but you do have a few options for design and content.

What is a contact information section?

Unlike other sections of your résumé, this section does not have a special heading like "Contact Information." Instead it simply lists the information below at the top of the page:

- Your full name
- Your e-mail address
- Your permanent address
- Your local or campus address (if applicable)
- Your phone number(s)
- Your web address/URL
- Your fax number, etc.

Of course, as with the rest of your résumé, you'll want to double-check that all the information you include is current and accurate. Mistyping your phone number could easily cost you an interview! Also, if you list an e-mail address, be sure to check your e-mail regularly or you may miss an important message.

If you live on campus, you should provide your campus address. But you may also want to provide your home address.

In the last of the workshop Mr. Dr. Manish Porwal has given the vote of thanks to our Guest Mr. I.S. Suri.

GUEST LECTURE ON COMMUNICATION SKILL AND BUSINESS ETIQUETTES

Royal Educational Institute has organized a Guest Lecture on “Communication skill & Business Etiquette” on 18th October 2018, 10.00 am to the students. Mr. Ankit Mehta addressed on the topic. He emphasized on essential communication skills for a successful career. The session highlighted on the image, communication, competence, demeanor in the profession. Students and faculty members of the college participated in the session.

Firstly, Chairman Mr. Vijay Agarwal, along with Mr. P.K. Jain, Dr. Manish Portal welcome the guest, then Mr. Vijay Agarwal said few words and Mr. P.K. Jain also express his views on communication skills.

This module focuses on working in groups and teams. Good manners or etiquette is an underlying theme to starting interaction on the right foot. While some of the things discussed in this section may seem like common knowledge or common sense, it can be helpful to be reminded of basic manners. Additionally, there are several important reminders or lessons about working with others and attending corporate events.

Attire

At a distance, initial impressions begin with attire. Are you dressed appropriately for this workplace? To “dress up” changes meaning from a Saturday night club to a place of worship to the workplace. Absent a uniform or direct corporate attire policy, look at what your boss and your boss’s boss wear in the workplace. Try to dress like those people as long as it’s appropriate for the job you actually do. However, do not overdo it in a manner that causes you not to fit in. If everyone at your workplace wears slacks and dress shirts, don’t wear a three-piece suit!

One bit of shared wisdom is to dress like the employee you want to be with your next promotion. There are times where you may be asked to attend an event away from the usual workplace. It may even be a bit social (such as taking a customer out for a meal). It is better to ask others about appropriate attire than to show up incorrectly dressed. This skill works in individual situations and particularly well when in a group. Think of your clothing as showing respect to the other person or persons.

Taking this forward, he explained about protocol, to shore up the professional relationships and networking skills. Planning, though crucial, should not eat up months or years during the starting phase. He suggested that recessions are great times to start new ventures, as hiring talent becomes easier during such phases. He also discussed scaling up, recruiting and its associated challenges. According to him, beautiful things can happen when change happens. He then took the session forward by sharing his insights on general guidelines for manners and behavior in the corporate sector. Also to introduce students to business etiquette and grooming and to familiarize them with formal set up of dress code in a workplace. He conveyed that, every culture has its own different set of manners, and a lot of manners are common across cultures which is important to follow them.

The interesting, inspiring, and elaborate session ended at 1 pm.

In the last of the workshop Mr. Dr. Manish Porwal has given the vote of thanks to our Guest Mr. Ankit Mehta.

Bachelor in Business Administration (BBA)

If you find yourself outstanding in presentations, have great convincing power, and know business tactics, you are perfect for BBA. Justifying its name, BBA is a bachelor's course in business administration. It is a three-year professional course of management divided into six semesters. A student from any stream (Science, Arts, or Commerce) can do a BBA course. It is one of the most flexible courses.

There are many specializations offered under the BBA degree. These specializations shape your practical, managerial, and communication skills, and sharpen your decision-making ability. Many of the specializations give you practical training in the form of projects, internships, industrial visits, etc. It can be confusing for you to choose among the various specializations. Based on your strengths and interests, you should opt for a core subject. To make your work easier here is a basic idea of each specialization and its potential. Here is a list of specializations you can choose from:

Business Administration- This is the best suited for those who want to unleash their business administration and management skills by learning its fundamentals. With this degree, you get to work on the management section of the business where the salary of the employees is quite high.

International Business- If you are dying to work in multinational companies (MNCs), you should know the tactics of conducting business on an international scale. A BBA degree in international business is perfect to make you learn how to enter a corporate world and rule it. It teaches you about international trade, accounting laws, and taxation processes.

Finance- This specialization gels well with the students who know how to play with numbers and are excellent at analysis and reasoning skills. BBA Finance not only opens a door of opportunities but also ensures high salaries.

Entrepreneurship- If you want to be your own boss and do not work for others, a BBA degree in entrepreneurship will help you to do so. It makes you learn about establishing a company from scratch, make it grow, or grow your existing family businesses.

Hospitality- A BBA in hospitality management is one of the most popular specializations. It has gained momentum due to the growth of the hospitality industry. You can even dream of having an overseas career with this degree.

Event Management- Another specialization in demand these days is BBA in event management. The course has turned out to be one of the best BBA courses. This course prepares you to design, coordinate, plan, and promote events using your management skills.

Human Resource- BBA in HR is one of the most commonly preferred specializations. HR acts as a link between employees and management. This course teaches you all the fundamentals of managing the organizational structure to keep employees happy. You are even taught to hire talent on the behalf of the organization.

Tourism- This is especially for those who love travelling and want to explore new places while working. You can work in travel companies offering tourism-related services with a BBA certificate in tourism.

Marketing- Marketing is an undying sector as companies will keep on introducing products and to sell them they will have to market them. Nowadays, even marketing is categorized into core subjects like BBA in Digital Marketing. Apart from drawing a good salary from the organization, marketers get many other perks. This is a plus point and hence many students choice this field.

BACHELOR OF COMMERCE (B.COM)

What are all the best courses after B.Com? How to achieve the best career after B.Com? Bachelor of commerce or B.Com is among the most popular graduation courses that students take after completing their school.

In today's day and age, getting a B.Com degree is crucial for a commerce student, but it is not enough. It is not easy to find high paying jobs for B.Com graduates if one has not chosen the right courses after bcom. This article will help you know more about after b.com jobs and salary details. Completing a degree can't promise you a great career after b.com. One has to take up post-graduation or professional certificate to have a well-established career after B.Com degree.

1. Master of Business Administration (MBA)

MBA is the most popular course available for students & one of the best courses after B.Com, not just graduating from commerce but any other field. In this course, you learn to manage all the aspects of a business based on the specialization you choose.

For MBA, you need to clear CAT or Common Admission Test. Your CAT score determines which college you get into. It is one of the best career options after B.Com. Various multinational companies hire fresh MBA graduates, and the starting salary ranges from 5 lakhs per annum to 25 lakhs per annum based on the Institute you graduated from and one of the best courses after b.com.

According to pay scale, the average salary of MBA graduates is 7.2 LPA in India.

2. Chartered Accountancy (CA)

The first course that generally comes to the mind of a commerce student as a career option is CA. CA is one of the best career options after B.Com. Unlike an MBA, students can enrol for CA right after completing high school. CA comprises three stages, namely CPT, IPCC, and CA Finals. Clearing all three stages along with an internship of 2.5 years makes you a certified chartered accountant. Arguably it is one of the best career options after bcom.

The duration of this course is three years, and this course can also land you jobs in multinational companies like EY or Deloitte. You can also open your own CA firm and practice your degree thus it is one of the best courses after B.Com.

Average salary of CA graduates is Rs. 7.9 LPA in India

3. Company Secretary (CS)

If you are wondering what to do after b.com, Company Secretary (CS) is one of the many pivotal job roles in an organization. A CS is responsible for managing all the legal aspects of a firm/organization.

To become a Company Secretary, you must study corporate law. This is a 3-year long degree comprised of three stages – Foundation, Intermediate, and Finals.

The salary range of CS in India ranges between Rs 4 – 10 LPA. According to PayScale the average salary of CS is Rs. 5.8 LPA which makes it one of the attractive career after bcom.

4. Master of Commerce (M.Com)

M.Com is the master's course in commerce. This degree is 2 years long in duration and can be attained through any government recognized university or college in India. This course helps you master the concepts you learned as a B.Com student and apply it in the professional world.

The average salary of M.Com graduates is Rs. 3.7 LPA

5. Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA)

The Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) is a globally recognized professional designation offered by the CFA Institute. Generally, the CFA course duration is 2.5 years, and it is designed to measure and certify the competence and integrity of financial analysts. To accomplish the designation of a CFA, you must pass a three-tier exam. Since CFA is considered to be the highest standard in the industry, CFAs are recruited by some of the top players like JP Morgan, Goldman Sachs, UBS, BlackRock, Morgan Stanley, and Royal Bank of Canada.

The average salary of a Chartered Financial Analyst is Rs. 6.6 LPA which makes it one of the fascinating career after bcom.

In the last of the workshop Mr. Dr. Manish Porwal has given the vote of thanks to our Guest Mrs. Tina Garg.
